"The Midnight Express" is the top liner to-day at the Bijou theatre. This is a very dramatic picture, showing a modern fast express train in rapid motion. The story of two young men stealing a large sum of money and their getaway is built around the main feature, the express train. It's thrilling enough to make the cold shivers creep up and down one's spinal column. There is a general air of excitement all through it. There are two other pictures of the comic order and a good sentimental song. By any means, not a bad program to see.
